AGGIE RIFLEMEN ARE BEST SHOTS IN 7TH CORPS AREA

R. O. T. C. Team Wins First Place In the Gallery Competition Held In April

The rifle team of the Kansas State Agricultural college R. O. T. C. won first place in the seventh corps gallery competition just completed, it was announced today. Each team shot on its own gallery, using the standard sub-caliber army rifle. The Kansas State Agricultural college team made 2,839 out of a possible 3,200 points. The University of Missouri and Iowa State college tied for second place with a score of 2,737, and the University of Kansas, University of Arkansas, University of North Dakota, and the Kemper Military school followed in the order given.

The Aggie rifle team was coached by Sergt. John McGarry, United States Infantry.

The men on the team have been exceptionally faithful in practices and many of them have developed into rifle shots of the first-class. They are Fred Bangs, of Mdaison; G. A. Flinger, of Cuba; F. L. Firebaugh, of St. John; C. D. Gross, of Russell; E. E. Hodgson, of Harveyville; F. J. Maas, of Los Angeles; G. S. Marrs, of Bradford; R. E. Marshall, of Leavenworth; W. Raleigh, of Clyde; H. E. Ratcliff, of Gaylord; C. E. Seydell, of Newark, Del.; O. E. Taintor, of Wichita; O. H. Ayde-lotte, Bert Howell, Glenn Spring, G. E. Stutz, and Lee Thackery, Manhattan.

Reconstruct College Rifle Range

The qualification shooting on the outdoor range at the college has been interrupted by the condition of the range. The range as it was constructed did not afford sufficient protection from ricochets. The military department is reconstructing the range to remedy this fault and the qualification shooting will continue next week.

C. E. Seydell, sophomore in agriculture, holds the high score of 204 in the qualification tests just finished. B. A. Howell, freshman in electrical engineering, is second with a score of 203. E. E. Hodson, junior in agriculture is third with a score of 197. These scores qualify these men as sharpshooters. Several other men made the qualifications necessary as marksmen.

This week the rifle competition will be pushed so that the teams for competitive shooting with other schools may be selected.

SCORE OF 2,839 WINS IN AREA COMPETITION

Sergeant John McGarry Coaches
Team—M. U. and Iowa State Teams
For Second

K. S. A. C. has been awarded first place in the Seventh Corps Area Gallery competition which closed in April, according to an official report received by the military department here. Fifteen competing teams were listed in the report, including the R. O. T. C. units of this corps area. The teams represented various schools over the Missouri valley, including four state universities, five state colleges, and two military schools.

This college receives first place with a score of 2,839. The University of Missouri and Iowa State college tied for second place, each making a score of 2,737. The University of Kansas placed third, while the University of Arkansas, University of North Dakota, and Kemper Military school followed in the order named. South Dakota State college placed tenth.

The competition has been conducted during the school year at each school. The gallery firing has been done under the supervision of regular army men and the scores recorded officially. The team scores were sent into headquarters and there inspected and verified and the final scoring and rating given as it appears in the report.

K. S. A. C.'s winning rifle team was coached by Sergeant John McGarry, U. S. infantry, Sergeant McGarry has had charge of the gallery throughout the school year and has supervised the firing each afternoon and evening. The excellent showing made by the team is largely due to his personal work with the team and his untiring efforts to perfect their rifle shooting.

The men of the team have also been exceptionally faithful in practice and many of them have developed into fine rifle shots. The men on the team are O. H. Aydelotte, Manhattan; Fred Bangs, Madison; G. A. Fillingim, Cuba; F. L. Firebaugh, St. John; C. D. Gross, Russell; E. E. Hodgson, Harveyville; Bert Howell, Manhattan; F. J. Mann, Los Angeles, Cal.; G. S. Marra, Bradford; B. E. Marshall, Lenoa; W. W. Raleigh, Clyde; H. L. Leavenworth, Del.; Glenn Spring, Manhattan; G. E. Stutz, Manhattan; O. E. Ratcliffe, Gaylor; C. E. Seydell, Newark, Del.; Glenn Spring, Manhattan; G. E. Stutz, Manhattan; O. E. Ratcliffe, Gaylor; and Lee Thacker, Manhattan.

The R. O. T. C. unit at Iowa State college entered three teams, infantry first team, engineering unit team, and infantry second team. The three teams placed second, ninth and fourteenth respectively.

GRAND SUCCESS

Hilarious, Fun In Annual Celebration of Ideas of March

VETS PLACE FIRST IN PARADE

Program of Chapel Stunts, Parade, Athletic Events, and Evening Dances Followed to Letter

No citizen of Manhattan who is capable of looking out of his window needs to be told that yesterday was the annual roughneck day at the college. All classes were officially dismissed after 9:30 and the remainder of the day was turned over to the roughs to use as they pleased. A definite program had been planned for the day, which was followed in every detail.

Variety The Keynote

During the first two class periods, the hobos in all their variety of make-ups, congregated in main hall where they gave each other the once over, and displayed their kiddish ways which the conventionalism of modern society normally prohibits. They were there 100 per cent strong—some with bells on, some with a surplus of raiment, and still others bedecked in war paint and little more than sufficient clothing to pass the censor. Many of the make-ups this year represented prominent national figures such as Charles Chaplin, Hoo-ligan, Andy, Theda Barn, Mutt, Jiggs and the like. Besides these, many of the divisions and departments had significant garbs.

Architects First at Chapel

At 9:30 everybody went to the auditorium where a roughneck chapel program, was enacted, before a packed house. The architects in their funny sort of Brownie outfits with bells and such, under the leadership of Professor Baker, walked off with the first prizes for the best chapel stunt. The Girls' Loyalty League took second and place while the Ags came in third.

Take Movies

Immediately after chapel some movies of the mob were taken and then everyone paraded to town. The parade, as is the case with some shows, was one of the best features of the day. C. C. McPherson, of the vocational Section, was in charge of the parade and saw to it that everything went off smoothly. The engineers with their multitude of tractors, motor cultivators, combined harvester, and the high wheeled bicycle, as well as the numerous prehistoric motor cars were only a few of the leading attractions of the review made before the judges stationed at the court house. After careful consideration the judges decided to give the first award in the parade to the veterinary students, and the backing Ford of the engineers was awarded their prize for the best individual stunt in the parade.

Afternoon Stunts

By noon many of the students had experienced enough of the roughneck life and as a result many hiking parties, tennis games and other forms of afternoon dates were arranged for to complete the day of festivity. On the college athletic field more students were staging stunts beginning at 1:30. Chief among these, was the tug of war between the ags and the engineers which was won by the farm
